In 2002, Marsha Blackburn was elected as U.S. Congressman from Tennessee's 7th District. Prior to being Congressman, she served in the Tennessee legislature for four years. It was during this period of time when she earned a reputation in public policy leadership as a steadfast conservative, committed to the Jeffersonian principles of limited government and individual responsibility, family strength, and grass-roots and community advocacy.

Congressman Marsha Blackburn was born on June 6, 1952, and grew up in Laurel, Mississippi. Since taking office in 2003, Congressman Blackburn has worked on legislation and programs aimed to promote an ownership society and to ensure a safe and prosperous future for all Americans. She has helped pass tax relief, restore concurrent receipt for Veterans, enact health care legislation for small businesses, board pay raise for our men and women in uniform, prohibit partial birth abortion and reform the personnel system of the Department of Defense. In 2005, Congressman Blackburn was selected by House leadership, at the start of the 109th Congress, to serve as majority member for the exclusive House Energy & Commerce Committee.

Named a 'rising star' by the Capitol Hill newspaper, Roll Call, only three years ago, U.S. Representative Marsha Blackburn has quickly earned a renowned reputation as one of America's most articulate and engaged political leaders. The National Journal described Congressman Blackburn as a 'top House conservative' in recognition of her conservative voting record. Americans for Tax Reform called the Congressman a 'taxpayer hero'. The National Taxpayer Union named her 'taxpayers friend'. She received the 'Best & Brightest Award' from the American Conservative Union for her 100% conservative voting record.

A voice to be heard and reckoned with, in living rooms, board rooms and in the hallways of governments, Congressman Marsha Blackburn is deemed by the media to be a key spokesperson on vital issues facing America and the world. Congressman Blackburn is confident that, in protecting our homeland and working for a world free of terror, we will succeed in building a safe and peaceful world for generations to come.

Congressman Blackburn and her husband Chuck have been married for more than thirty years, and they have two children, Mary Morgan Ketchel and Chad Blackburn.

Unlike most female Representatives, she prefers to be called "Congressman Blackburn."
